

The balanced character of the new bed Net designed by Matteo Nunziati for Turri

The soft rhythm of the bed Net designed by Matteo Nunziati for Turri, introduces the most intimate space of the home: the bedroom.

The protagonist is the woven leather which strongly embraces the bed head by giving a feeling of high materiality and a bold and strong character to one of the most important elements, essential for experiencing and sharing such an intimate area.

A balance of refinement and functionality transforms the bed head into an important pillar of this night architecture: the spontaneous and free softness develops along the heat-treated eucalyptus structure, and it becomes a warm and welcoming nest able to host the generous mattress.

When we enjoy a moment of deserved relax, the head becomes lighter and can be carried away, swinging and uncontrollable. This is what happens through the bed Net: without wall mounting, it reminds to a concept of suspension, a floating lightness like the one we experience in our dreams.

The match between innovation and designing ends in a draw: the creative approach interacts with the sustainability's challenges and themes, and it interprets the living environment in a contemporary way. The selection of the raw materials and the expertise in the furnishing field of a worldwide company known for its Made in Italy, result into an exclusive and tailor-made choice for a relaxing place, far from the daily routine and dedicated to the inner wellness.

The zen philosophy says: concentration and breathing are the best allies for a whole awareness which embraces body and mind and lets us to live in a balancing way.

Inside this private and intimate space nothing is left to chance: the light shapes show a relationship of contemporary proportions and transform the bed Net into a safe hiding place where to find a shelter, when it is necessary.

By laying on the bed Net, we can receive a great relaxing hug when the day is over, and an energetic one for a natural waking up every morning.